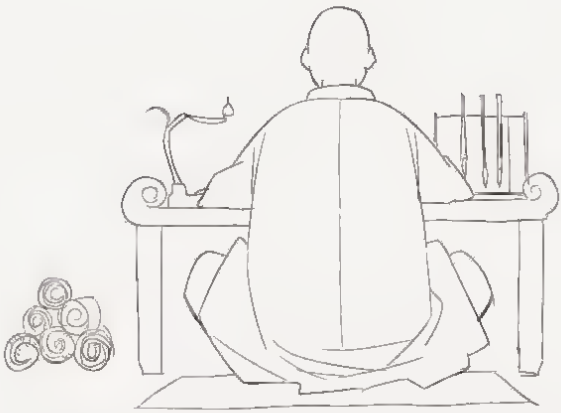
T/N: Things went wild later on. For more spoilers check spoiler comments on batoto.



This series has come to the largest turning point, from now on the stage would be broader, and there would be more charcters showing up too. Although the general outline has been worked out, the historiographer needs more time to recall the details of events and appearances of characters. There is also need for some interviews back in the hometown. The historiographer will be back again to tell the forgotten history when everything is ready.
